Awesome!

2/1 Game Force System

Donna Compton

One key to good bidding is for each member of the partnership to recognize whether a particular bid is forcing, invitational, or signing off. Many situations create almost insurmountable challenges using standard methods.

Two Over One (2/1) Game Force System

2/1 Game Force can make it easier for partnerships to explore for the best game contract or look for slam. Once the initial 2/1 response has been made, any bid below game is forcing. Neither partner needs to jump to game for fear of being passed in a part-score contract.

EXCEPTION: 2/1 by a passed hand is NOT game forcing:

Pass (Pass) 1♥ (Pass)
2♦

Problem Auction

A problem auction for 2/1 is 1♦–2♣. With no Forcing 1NT option, therefore, 1♦–3♣ shows invitational hands.

1♦ 2♣ = Game Force
1♦ 3♣ = Invitational

Principle of Fast Arrival

Although 2/1 Game Force can leave the partnership more room to search for the best contract, once you know where the partnership belongs, no advantage to any further exploration is necessary.

If you know where the partnership belongs, get there as quickly as possible. If you make extraneous bids along the way, you always take the chance that partner will misunderstand where you are heading and get the partnership to the wrong spot. Extra bids also give the opponents additional information and additional opportunities to enter the bidding—with a lead-directing double, for example.

The principle of fast arrival is that the faster the final contract is reached, the weaker the hand that places the contract. Conversely, the slower the approach, the stronger the suggestion that a higher contract may be appropriate.

However, not all jumps to game are sign-offs, showing a weak hand. In some sequences, jumps carry very specific information (such as picture bids).

Interference by the Opponents: 2/1 Game Force?

When you open the bidding in a suit at the one level, partner's two-level response in a new suit is forcing to game unless partner is a passed hand or unless your left-hand opponent has overcalled. If your left-hand opponent passes, partner's two-level response is game forcing even if your right-hand opponent interferes.

Rebids by Opener

- A rebid of the major suit shows 6+ cards in the suit (broken suit or extra values).

1♥ 2♦
2♥

- A raise of partner's suit shows 4-card support (except for raising hearts).

1♥ 2♦
3♦ (4+ card support)

1♠ 2♥
3♥ (3+ card support)

- A rebid of 2NT is a balanced hand and may or may not be extra values (12–14 or 18–19 points).

1♥ 2♣
2NT

- A rebid of a new suit, higher or lower ranking, is natural, promising 4+ cards.

1♠ 2♦
2♥

- A rebid of 3 of the major suit shows a solid suit and a minimum (12–14 points)

1♥ 2♣
3♥

- A rebid of 4 of the major shows 7+ cards in the suit and a minimum (12–14 points).

1♥ 2♦
4♥

- A jump rebid of a new suit is a splinter for partner's suit.

1♠ 2♣
3♥

Rebids by Responder

- Raise partner's major to game with 3+ trumps and a minimum response (13 points).

1♥ 2♣
2♥ 4♥

- Raise partner's major without jumping with 3+ trumps and extra values (14+ points).

1♠ 2♦
2♠ 3♠

- Rebid your own suit with 6+ cards and an interest in that being trumps.

1♥ 2♣
2♥ 3♣

- Rebid 2NT with stoppers in the unbid suits and extra values (14+ points).

1♥ 2♦
2♥ 2NT

- Rebid 3NT with stoppers in the unbid suits and a minimum (13 points).

1♠ 2♣
2♠ 3NT

- Bid a new suit with 4+ cards when the final contract is unknown.

1♠ 2♦
2♠ 3♣

- Jump in a new suit as a splinter bid (no extra values required).

1♠ 2♦
2♥ 4♣
